

DUFFY FOUND GUILTY OF PERJURY IN CEDAR RAPIDS

MORE DETAILS OF BREMEN'S FLIGHT GIVEN TO WORLD

A Dramatic Story from Greenly Island of Perilous Trip

BULLETIN
Montreal, Quebec, April 18—(B7 Canadian Press)—Fred Melchor, a Canadian pilot, announced today that he would fly to New York this afternoon to get a propeller for the Bremen, the trans-Atlantic plane damaged in landing on Greenly Island. The propeller will be relayed by air to the stranded ship.

BULLETIN
Chicago, April 18—(AP)—Ludwig Plate, western manager of North German Lloyds and personal friend of Baron von Huenefeld, one of the three German-Irish flyers, today announced receipt of a message from the Baron stating that he would visit Chicago "very soon."

Mr. Plate was host to the Baron when the latter visited Chicago in 1925.

BULLETIN
Seven Islands, Quebec, April 18—(By The Canadian Press)—Major James Fitzmaurice, Irish member of the trans-Atlantic Bremen flight, left Greenly Island on Sunday because he was anxious to return home. He told The Canadian Press correspondent here today, "I will go to Murray Bay today and then to New York." "From New York I will sail for Ireland."

Quebec, April 18—(AP)—The German-Irish flying triumvirate today planned a rendezvous here for a continuance of their flight in the plane's sister ship, the Junkers F-13. Under these plans the trans-Atlantic monoplanes Bremen would be left at Greenly Island for a while.

The decision of Captain Herman Koehl and Baron Gunther von Huenefeld to give up their effort to repair their plane came as Major James Fitzmaurice fought a freezing northern storm in an effort to reach Quebec and start repair parts back to them.

The Irish Commandant and Charles A. (Duke) Schiller, Canadian pilot, spent the night at Clarke City, Quebec.

Schiller, learning that the two Germans wished to come out in a relief plane instead of waiting for repairs, volunteered to go back after them but poor communication deferred knowledge of their decision.

Another plane bearing reporters and photographers was at Seven Islands today across the bay from Clarke City.

The F-13, today was at the flying field at Montreal, ready to take the Bremen crew to New York.

Miss Herta Junkers, daughter of the Bremen's builder, was at Murray Bay, waiting anxiously for formulation of the fliers' plans so that she might act to aid them.

The ice-breaking steamer Montcalm, which the Canadian government sent to the fliers aid last Friday, was recalled yesterday when the practicability of taking aid to Greenly Island by air was proved.

Fred Melchor, Junkers pilot who flew the F-13 to Montreal, said he thought the best plan would be to send his mechanic who came from New York by train with the necessary repair parts, on to Greenly Island. After repairs should be made, he said, he could fly to Greenly Island and then take the Bremen to New York.

Through the Point Armor radio station near Greenly Island Baron von Huenefeld furnished the Marconi Wireless Company with a short description of the flight.

Story of Flight
"Bremen time flight 36 hours and half," said his message. "Struck heavy fog off New Foundland coast. Forced fly above. Found impossible fog at two thousand feet high. Descended fifty feet of waves. Had to mount again. Very high seas. Steered west whole night. Heavy storm. Stars occasionally. At dawn flew over wooded country. Could not locate position. Also flew over large river."

STOLEN ASHTON CAR FOUND BY STATE POLICEMAN AFTER CHASE; HOLD ALLEGED THIEF

Joliet Boy Now in Lee County Jail on a Larceny Charge

Jay Westphal, 17, of Joliet, is in the county jail under bonds of $1,000 on a charge of larceny, for the theft of a Ford touring car stolen from the streets of Dixon Monday afternoon and belonging to Frank Bohart of Ashton. Through the efforts of State Highway Officer Harold Lenox, the car was found in a garage at Hampshire in Kane county, where Westphal attempted to dispose of it, about noon yesterday for $50.

Westphal, who lives with his father at Joliet, formerly worked near Ashton and rode to Dixon Monday with Bohart and two other of the latter's friends. He claimed to be looking for work and when the three friends went to the theater, he left them. The car was reported stolen shortly after 4 o'clock. Westphal is said to have admitted the theft of the machine and told Officer Lenox that he drove it to Genoa where he spent the night with friends, leaving the car parked on the street. Yesterday he drove to Hampshire and stopped at the Peterson garage where he tried to dispose of it.

A deputy sheriff from Geneva was in the garage at the time and suspecting that the machine was a stolen one, took Westphal to Geneva, where the young man is said to have admitted stealing the Ford in Dixon about 3:30 Monday afternoon. State Officer Lenox and the owner of the car went to Geneva last evening with a state warrant issued by Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson, where they took the prisoner in charge and then went to Hampshire where they secured the car, returning to Dixon at an early hour this morning.

Westphal is said to have served a sentence in the county jail at Sycamore about a year ago for the theft of a sum of money which he is alleged to have taken from a filing station.

Four Died in Fire

Two older boys escaped but were burned.

The children were trapped in their bedrooms. The parents were downstairs when the fire broke out. Hearing screams, they rushed for the second floor, but were driven back by the flames. They escaped. It was believed that the bedrooms were filled with gas from a leaking pipe and that a small lamp ignited the gas.

Flight is Held Up

Mexicali, Mex., April 18—(AP)—A projected 25,000 mile aerial trip around South America, with Fresno, Cal., as the starting point, today was being held up by a technicality in Mexican law after the completion of the first leg of the flight.

A half way stop will be made at Santa Ana, Sonora, instead of the intended non-stop flight to Guaymas.

St. Louis, April 18—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is home again, this time with a new monoplane which he will use in place of the "Spirit of St. Louis," which he said would be given to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington.

Fighting strong head winds, Lindbergh flew 400 miles from Wichita, Kans., and landed here shortly after 6 p. m. last night with two passengers, H. M. Bixby, President of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and Harry H. Knight, a broker.

The Colonel, still rangy and conditioned, looked fresher than when he landed here after his South American tour. He said he likes his new plane very well, and that it was built for other work than the "Spirit of St. Louis."

He said he hadn't decided whether he would attend the air show at Detroit.

ROCK FALLS MAN KILLED WIFE AND SELF YESTERDAY

Jealousy Believed to Have Been the Cause of Double Tragedy

Jack Taylor, in the presence of a four-year-old daughter, Ethel Juanita, shot and killed his wife at their home in Rock Falls Monday morning, and while the child was running to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. A. M. Dickens, a block away, Taylor placed the gun, a 32 caliber automatic, into his mouth and sent a bullet crashing through his brain. He was dying when Mrs. Dickens and others arrived at the scene of the terrible tragedy. Jealousy was the cause of the crime, according to Mrs. Dickens, mother of Mrs. Taylor.

The first information of the shooting was from the little child, who ran to the home of her grandmother, crying, "Oh, grandma, daddy has killed mamma, and he is standing there looking at her, and she is bleeding."

Woman Shot in Back.
Panic stricken, Mrs. Dickens ran toward the Taylor home and a terrible sight greeted her as she opened the kitchen door. In one corner of the room her daughter lay dead in a pool of blood and her son-in-law lay with his head in another corner of the room, breathing his last. The gun was gripped in his hand. Taylor, after reflecting on his terrible deed and while their daughter was running for help, had placed the

Defended "Yellow Dog" Mine Contract

Washington, April 18—(AP)—The so called "yellow dog" contract was defended before the Senate coal investigating committee today by Landon G. Bell, counsel for the Red Jacket Coal & Coke Company, which operates in West Virginia.

Submitting a sample of the contract between his company and its mining employees, Bell said it was "made by free American citizens."

Referring to the term "yellow dog contract" which had been used by representatives of the United Mine Workers in describing the instrument, the witness continued: "We would resent the use of that term, were it not the harmless vapors of charging and defeat."

Bell was interrupted by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, who asked:

"Aren't you by the fact of asking a man to sign the agreement, preventing him from exercising free will?"

"We don't think so, Senator," replied Bell.

HE DIES TOMORROW MORNING

Charles Birger, notorious southern Illinois gang leader, lost his last chance to escape the gallows late Tuesday afternoon when a jury in Circuit Court at Benton returned a verdict finding him sane, and immediately Judge Charles Miller re-sentenced him to die at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, Illinois.

The Supreme Court last week denied Birger a re-hearing, and on the eve of his scheduled execution—which had been set for last Friday morning—his attorney secured a stay by filing a petition for a sanity hearing. The hearing was held yesterday and lasted but the single day.

BIRGER, DESERTED BY LAWYERS, MUST DIE TOMORROW A. M. AT 10 O'CLOCK; JUDGE'S SENTENCE

Insanity Plea Failed After Single Day of Evidence

Benton, Ill., April 18—(AP)—Deserted even by his attorneys, Charles Birger, condemned leader of a southern Illinois gang that terrorized the countryside for several years, dies on the gallows here tomorrow.

Robert E. Smith, his attorney, who has fought with every legal resource at his command to save Birger, said "this is the end of the road—nothing further will be done for him" when a Circuit Court jury yesterday found the gangster sane and his hanging was set for 10 a. m. tomorrow.

An insanity hearing lasting only one day ended abruptly yesterday and Birger's hopes went glimmering when the jury deliberated only ten minutes before pronouncing him sane. Circuit Judge Charles Miller then re-sentenced the condemned man for the murder of Joe Adams, 300-pound Mayor of West City, Ill.

Birger, whose jaunty defiance has characterized his every appearance in court was unmoved by the failure of the insanity plea.

Only one witness, Maurice McGlasson, Duquoin, Ill., restaurant man, testified for the defense. McGlasson based his belief that Birger is insane on the fact that he "bites his lips and twists, and also by the way he walks."

HE FACES MAXIMUM OF TEN YEARS IN IA. PENITENTIARY

A New Trial Will be Plea: Sentence to Come Saturday

John W. Duffy, former Dixon coal merchant, automobile agent and taxi-owner, was late yesterday afternoon convicted of perjury by a jury in a district court in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and faces a maximum term of fifteen years in prison. The jury reached a verdict on its twenty-first ballot, after being out 21 hours, and reports to The Telegraph from the Iowa city are to the effect that from the first the jurors stood 8 to 4 for conviction.

The story of the trial of the former Dixon man, is told in the following dispatches to The Telegraph:

TO ASK NEW TRIAL.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, April 18—(AP)—Attorneys for John W. Duffy of Dixon, Ill., convicted yesterday on a perjury charge, announced today that they would file a motion for a new trial, and would appeal to the Iowa Supreme Court if their request was denied.

Although no details were announced, it was believed that the new trial would be asked Saturday when Duffy comes up for sentence.

Duffy faces a maximum sentence of ten years imprisonment after conviction on his own testimony that he was in Cedar Rapids during the robbery of an Alburnett, Iowa, bank last winter, in which he was an accused participant.

MAXIMUM OF 10 YEARS.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, April 18—(AP)—A maximum sentence on ten years imprisonment faced John W. Duffy of Dixon, Ill., today upon the finding by a District Court jury that he perjured himself in testifying at his trial on a charge of robbing the Alburnett State Bank that he was not at the scene of the robbery.

It was upon his alibi that he was in Cedar Rapids last Nov. 30, at the time the Alburnett bank was looted of nearly $7,000, that Duffy was acquitted recently of the robbery charge.

Duffy presented witnesses who testified he was in this city throughout the day of the robbery, offsetting this testimony by bank officers and other state witnesses that he was seen in front of the bank with Roscoe Shomler, who was convicted in a separate trial and is now serving a life sentence.

SENTENCE SATURDAY (BY THE AP)

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, April 17—John W. Duffy of Dixon, Ill., was found guilty of perjury by a jury in District Court here late today after twenty-three hours of deliberation. The maximum penalty is 10 years imprisonment. Sentence probably will be pronounced Saturday. In convicting Duffy of perjury the jury refused to accept Duffy's story that he was in Cedar Rapids last November 30 at the time the Alburnett State Bank was robbed. It was on this alibi that a previous jury in Duffy's trial on a robbery charge found him not guilty. Roscoe Shomler of Cedar Rapids, who was arrested with Duffy, was convicted and is serving a life sentence for the robbery. Duffy's acquittal occurred at a separate trial after which County Attorney Walter J. Bangorover obtained the perjury indictment, which resulted today in Duffy's conviction. Officers of the bank and other state witnesses in all three trials testified they saw Duffy in an automobile in front of the bank while it was being robbed. Defense witnesses placed him in Cedar Rapids all day. Two state witnesses testified the man in front of the bank was smoking cigarettes. Duffy introduced witnesses to sustain his contention that he does not smoke.

TO ASK NEW TRIAL.

The jury stood eight to four for conviction on the first ballot and for the period before the twentieth, stood eleven to one.

They advised the court at 3 o'clock that they had arrived at a verdict.

The arrest was a further step in the "Battle of Averyville."

Villagers opposed to annexation alleged that the election by which Averyville was annexed by a majority of more than 300 was illegal, asked the recovery of city records seized last Saturday and of voting booths and ballot boxes taken Monday.

The case will be heard next month. On the other hand the village's election of three trustees and a clerk was held illegal by the Peoria election commission.

DOWN IN BED 5 WEEKS WITH RHEUMATISM

Great Knots Formed on Her Limbs; Never Such Misery, Says Gly-Cas Amazing

"Words cannot express how happy I am that I found this wonderful Gly-Cas medicine," says Mrs. Edna Anderson, 119 Van Buren St., Freeport, Ill., in praise of this new vegetable preparation at Campbell's drug store, Dixon, Ill.

"Five weeks I was down in bed with rheumatism," she continues. "Great knots had raised over my limbs from the hips down and I suffered agony. Even my flesh became sore and I tell you, never before had I suffered so in all my life—even to an operation. Liniments or medicines appeared unable to give me any rest or relief. Then came Gly-Cas and honestly, in four days my pains began to leave—I kept on with the medicine and then those terrible knots started disappearing, too. It is the truth that after I'd used Gly-Cas a week I went up town for the first time in 5 weeks and I can say now that Gly-Cas simply relieved my terrible rheumatic suffering."

The Gly-Cas Man is at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Dixon, and is daily meeting the public and explaining this amazing new medical discovery. Free samples given.—Adv.

Finally as despair grew, they saw what they took to be a sealing steamer frozen in the ice. It was the lighthouse on Greenly Island.

There was a small pond on the island and although the Bremen was without skids for a landing on ice they descended. The plane broke through the ice. The metal propeller

THE GREEN WOODPECKER—

By Barbara Euphan Todd
There was an old woman, so I've been told,
Who carried more gossip than she could hold;
She was terribly smart and she used to prink
In emerald gowns, and her hats were pink.
Her knobby knuckles were worn quite sore
Through tapping the paint of a neighbor's door—
"Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
Haven't you heard about Mrs. Yap?
Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
They say her nephew is such a rip!"

Now who in a village could yet refuse
To welcome the bringer of naughty news
And who, in a cottage on earth, refrain
From asking a gossip to call again?
No wonder her knuckles were sore:
When those
Were riddled past rapping she used
Her nose—
"Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
They say Miss Milligan likes her drap!
Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
I've heard her sister can say a rip!"

She jammed all day till—I've heard it said—
Her tongue was stretched to a writhing thread,
And her nose, through tapping, grew hard as task,
But still she would tattle of things to scorch
Respectable ears in her neighbor's porch—
"Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
They say Miss Meadows has set her cap!
Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
There's many a slip 'twixt cap and lip!"

Then some one at last, but I don't know who,
Clapped magical hands and away she flew
More swiftly than news, and it's said that she Still carries a message from tree to tree,
And, burdened with gossip as aye before,
She taps at the bark of a dryad's door—
"Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
The birch is quickened with rising sap!
Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
A bumble clings to the bluebell's lip!"

Oh! long may she flutter and prink and preen
Her suitable feathers of Lincoln green,
And long may she gossip, who's grown so wise,
Of golden shadows and azure skies;
And long may she ruffle her crimson crest,
And laugh at the fashions of trees, new-dressed—
"Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
The blackcap's courting a maid blackcap!
Tippety tap! Tippety tap!
I know of an egg that is going to chip!"

LUNCHEON—Peppers stuffed with fish, cabbage and orange salad, ginger cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Baked ham, scalloped sweet potatoes and pineapple, asparagus salad, fruit puff pudding, milk, coffee.

Peppers Stuffed with Fish.
Four medium sized sweet green peppers, 1 cup boiled rice, 2-3 cup baked fish, 1 thin slice bacon, 4 tablespoons coarse bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon minced onion, salt and pepper, tomato juice, 1 teaspoon sugar.

Cut a slice from stem end of peppers and remove seeds and white pith. Drop into rapidly boiling water, simmer ten minutes and drain. Plunge into cold water and turn upside down until ready to stuff. Cut bacon into tiny pieces and try out fat. Add rice and stir with a fork until each kernel is coated with fat. Add onion, fish, salt and pepper and tomato juice to make moist. Fill peppers with mixture. Melt butter and stir in crumbs. Put a tablespoon of crumbs on top of each pepper and bake in a moderate oven until crumbs are brown and peppers are tender. It will take about half an hour.

A sprig of an oak tree has been placed in the yard of the Worth-while clubhouse in Thomasville, Ala.; the Village Improvement association of Rehoboth Beach, Del., has cooperated with the woman's club in planting an evergreen tree; the Overlook Women's Improvement club of Portland, Ore., has planted several evergreens, and the Lane county officials have cooperated with the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs in planting several trees.

BRITISH LAUNDRIES TRY TO CUT WEAR AND TEAR—

Hendon, England (AP)—British housewives now are assured by their laundries that their choice linen no longer will come back ruined.

The British laundries have united in establishing a scientific research bureau here which solves all laundry problems, devises better means of washing so as to give satisfaction to the housewife, keeps down the cost of laundry work and advises ways to turn out white, glossy goods with the least possible wear.

If a silk stocking goes home to its owner with a ladder in its side, and is sent back with a brisk demand for damages, the researchers investigate the manner in which the stocking might have been weakened.

Damaged goods are examined under a microscope, fabrics are tested for strength by a pressure gauge, effects of cleaning processes are observed through a glass window in the washing machine, colors are tested by means of tinted discs and the causes of color fading are investigated at the research station, which is aided by the national government.

Girls' Hi-Y Club Meeting Was Held

The Girls' Hi-Y club held their regular meeting at the Y. Tuesday evening. After a delicious dinner served by Miss Hunle's group, Ruth Leydig sang "Charmaine," accompanied by Miss Edith Slothower. For an encore both girls sang "Together." Miss Bart gave a part synopsis of the most interesting process as well as beautiful spots, that she has encountered in some of her trips in America and abroad. Vivian Brantner read the Tatler for the South Side and the meeting adjourned.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

A woman just learning to drive a car ran into a group of school children, crushing three of them to death as her car pinned them against the porch of their very own home. This tale picked from the morning's news is not very startling. The same thing happens in most every city day after day. It is not a matter of new "women drivers" but of "the new driver," male or female.

Something must be done. No one can ever learn to drive a car without some experience. You can hardly argue that certain tests of police and intelligence before one is allowed to drive at all, are what we need, for the flithest "new drivers" turn in a short time into the best ones. But how about a law restricting "new drivers" to a certain area from which they cannot graduate till they pass examinations?

The little dead children say that something must be done!

MARY'S MOTHER

The attention given Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, mother of Mary and Jack and Lottie, now that she is dead, tells the old story of great mothers behind great children. It was Mrs. John Smith (real name of Mrs. Pickford) who thought of the screen possibilities for her children and who encouraged them through years of poverty and bleak hardship.

The mother of Isadore Duncan as seen in the dancer's "Life," is another type of mother who forced her children into greatness, but in a different way. One suspects that she wanted support from them, but wasn't insistent how they did it. Isadore at the age of 10 is out with her wits getting bread for her mother. But she did it! Maybe the old homely proverb of "more than one way to skin a cat," holds true here.

A MODERN ENOCH

The lonely wife of the famous "Enoch Arden" poem had no divorce when she remarried, after mourning her Enoch as dead for long years. Instead of a complicated affair, one wonders if a good word can't be said for divorce in such connections.

For instance, a shell-shocked world war veteran finds that he has two families, having remarried after wandering away from his old home some seven years ago. His wife, believing him dead, but wanting to make sure, divorced him and is herself remarried and has a second family. Both parties seem satisfied with the present arrangement. But even the expediency of modern divorce laws might not help if both the husband and wife wanted to re-establish marriage number one!

"BAD GIRL"

A pretty young New York stenographer woke up one morning to find herself famous, as her first novel on which she had been working in spare time for three years, was published by the Literary Guild which gave her an advance royalty check of $10,000. The girl is Vina Delmar, author of "Bad Girl." She is married, has a baby, keeps a flat and runs her office job, to say nothing of writing a novel.

So many comments could be made on the young author of "Bad Girl." She's just one more proof, of course, of the ambitions and perseverance and achievements of youth. And there's a heart-ache, too, in thinking of the thousands of office girls who will begin to write novels, when one knows the slim chance that there is of such a thing ever happening again. Success seems to have no pattern. The same formula rarely works twice.

ACADEMY OF STYLE SUGGESTED IN PARIS—

Paris (AP)—Paris needs an academy of style or America will usurp the rule of French fashion, warns the newspaper Paris-Midi.

The paper complains that the foreign buyer is "king" and that it will not be long before he will impose American ideals of style on Paris designers. Then when Paris makes gowns on American lines America will take the mannequins across the Atlantic, hire the French designers and run the world of fashion, the newspaper prophesies.

The newspaper would have this new academy, like the renowned Academie Francaise, support the traditions of style just as the immortals maintain the language.

Marriage Goldie Pontius to Everett Tilton

Mrs. Alice Pontius of Dixon, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Goldie Pontius to Everett Tilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Tilton of Oregon, on Tuesday, April 17th. The marriage took place at the parsonage to the Grace Methodist church in Rockford at 5 o'clock, the bride and bridegroom being attended by Mrs. Rachel Darby of Dixon and Leo Curtis of Oregon. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. A. W. Carlson, pastor of Grace church of Rockford, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church of Dixon. The bride was charmingly gowned in a dark blue georgette ensemble, with hat harmonizing and she wore a corsage of bridal roses. The matron of honor

The Triangle Club will meet at the Christian Church Thursday evening, April 19, at 6 o'clock for a scramble supper, the business meeting and program immediately following, with Miss Dorothy Bovey, president and Miss Dorothy Prescott in charge.

There are so many things to do during this last quarter of the Missionary year, every member should be present as the nominating committee will be appointed, their reports on new officers for the coming year to be given in May, and the new officers will be installed in June.

Plans will be made for a committee to see each member personally during May to collect pledges and regular monthly offerings.

If the Triangle Club fails to attain the financial aim, it means the boys and girls in various lands, who are in schools, hospitals and orphanages, which the Triangles help to support, will have to be turned away because

Heroic Carriers Mail Get Merited Reward

Washington, April 18—(AP)—The thermometer stood at fifty below zero. But Wilbur Jewell merely pulled down his earmuffs tighter and set out from Chatanika, Alaska, to deliver letters of Christmas greeting to the people of Circle. Before he got there he had severely frozen his hands and feet.

Sitting in her living room by the fire in a comfortable home in Norwalk, Conn., a woman read in the newspapers about Jewell's sacrifice and decided he ought to be rewarded.

Then, some time later, she also read about Maurice O'Leary, another Alaskan carrier of mails; how he froze his hands and feet rescuing his horse which broke through the ice while they were making their lonely route, and had to have some fingers amputated.

And the story of Bert Thorson also moved her. Thorson battled blizzard swept plains to deliver his mail to two Arctic outposts.

So this Connecticut woman sent Postmaster General New a check for $250 with a letter containing fine sentiments. Mr. New has mailed the check to Alaska to be divided among the three carriers.

The name of the donor will not be made public.

WHERE WAR IS BORN.

Figures just compiled by the League of Nations show that the World War cost, in all, a total of 37,000,000 human lives and $362,500,000,000.

These figures are staggering, almost incomprehensible. The human mind can hardly assimilate them. In all the sad record of humanity's mistakes and blunders, there is no item that even approaches this in cost.

It is, in a way, a tribute either to mankind's blindness or mankind's everlasting resiliency, that the people of the earth have not arisen as one man and demanded that all war-making machinery be thrown, pronto, onto the scrap heap. They have done no such thing, of course; but, considering the price the war cost, it rather amazing that they have not.

Probably it would be expecting too much to look for anything like that. We live in a groove, worn deep by centuries of custom; so deep that even the terrific shock of the World War could not jar us out of it. The World War was not the work of a few scheming chancellors and generals, as we used to pretend. It was the work of all of us; the inevitable outcome of what we all were in the years preceding it.

We lived in a way to make war unavoidable. We realized it, dimly, but we didn't care greatly. There always had been wars, and we assumed there always would be. Germans took it for granted that some day they would fight France and England. French and English knew that some day they would fight Germany. Americans felt sure they would fight somebody some day; the identity of the probable foe was obscure, but we sensed that there would be one.

So, in 1914, things came to a head—and it happened. All of that is history, now, and it's too late to mend. We can, however, look to the future. We can snap ourselves out of our placid acceptance of war as inevitable, and realize that it is very stupid and frightfully costly.

A few years ago we were in a fine mental attitude for a war with Japan. We told ourselves that such a war was inevitable, sooner or later; and that very attitude helped make it so. We have gotten over that now, to a great extent; but in its place we are beginning to put a notion that we will be fighting Great Britain before many years.

If we want another war, with twenty or thirty million lives lost and hundreds of billions of dollars worth of property wasted, we can continue in that attitude and let it grow. We'll have it, all right, if we do. And if we don't want another war—if we have learned anything at all from the last one—we must abandon that attitude right away.

The mental attitude is what counts. It is what produced the last war and it is what will produce all future wars. The time to avoid "the next war" is right now.

EUROPE IS INVITED.

It is encouraging to read that steamship companies are looking for a spurt in the Europe-to-America tourist trade in the near future.

For years Americans have been touring Europe. Few Europeans visit America, however, with the exception of the very wealthy. It is to be hoped that the practice will spread, until a trip to America will be just as popular among Europeans as a trip to Europe is among Americans.

For Europe doesn't understand us; doesn't begin to. If Europeans could come and visit us as tourists, perhaps they would find that we're a better sort than they had supposed. The cause of international understanding would be advanced.

STUFFING OUR BRAINS.

A Pennsylvania psychologist announces that if a man acquired 30,000 bits of information a day, his brain would be stuffed to capacity by the time he was 50 years old. After that he could learn nothing more.

Knowing nothing of psychology, we nevertheless feel there must be something wrong with the professor's figures. We know any number of men whose brains are hermetically sealed to any and all new ideas. Most of them are not yet 50, but they have learned nothing new in a dozen years. And we're positive they never took in 30,000 bits of information in one day—or in 1000.

Big Bill Thompson threatened to resign as mayor of Chicago if Swanson beat Crowe for state's attorney. Mr. Swanson did. Probably His Honor, Big Bill, is reading up his American histories to find proper and patriotic words to use in his resignation. And it may take him years to find 'em.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The flying man and big black bird fought hard, and shrieks were plainly heard. The bird made such an awful sound, it scared the Tinymites. "I wish that we could help the man, but there is no way that we can," said Scouty. "Mercy me, just look how wonderful he fights."

And, sure enough, the man was game. As up to him the big bird came, he struck out with his fists and hit the bird upon the beak. "Oh, look!" cried Coppy, "there he goes. The bird is leaving. See, he knows he's licked." The Tinymites were so thrilled they simply could not speak.

And then the man dropped to their side. "I won the fight," he loudly cried. "I feared that bird would peck me, but he didn't get a chance. I guess this is my lucky day. My blow just took his breath away, and now we're safe. I am so glad that I could almost dance."

And then he said, "Come on, let's go. We must find Clowny now, you know. I'm sure that he is right close by, upon the mountain side." So, on his back they hopped again. One Tiny cried, "All set!" And then the flying man rose in the air upon another ride.

They circled 'round the mountain top and then the man began to drop. "Look just below," he shouted. "I can see a nest real plain. And someone's in it. Yes, I'm right! I'll bet it's Clowny Tinymite." "That's who it is," yelled Carpy. "Our long search is not in vain."

The flying man then quickly dropped, and right beside the nest he stopped. "Well, look who's here," yelled Clowny. "I'm glad to see you me, but he didn't get a chance. Look out, don't slip. I'll tell you all about my trip. The black bird gave me quite a ride. I wasn't scared at all."

(The flying man leaves the Tinymites in the next story.)

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Mom, dear: Here's where you get the surprise of your life. I went, alone and unprotected, to the lion's den. And I came out all of a piece. Now I'll tell you what those plans are—those I referred to in a previous letter. I knew when Michello asked me to pose for him that it was purely a business proposition. Don't ask me how I knew. Even girls of your day must have known when they appealed to a man as a man. I knew I hadn't clicked with Michello. He didn't seem to be interested in me as an addition to his love gallery.

There were others, I admit, at the party who took notice of me after the show in a warmly personal way, but Michello was not one of them. He told me that he liked my figure and wanted to sketch me in poses of the dance. They're to be used in illustrating a book on the origin of modern dancing.

He's going to do a series. It will take some time as he can't work steadily on them. He has three portraits under way now and several more ordered. Some day I hope he will do one of me but his prices are stiff. I thought he might offer to do

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE

By Dr. Frank McCoy
Keep Me Just the Way I Am

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. FRANK MCCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER. ENCLOSE STAMPED ADDRESS ENVELOPE FOR REPLY.

Dr. McCoy will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Evening Telegraph. Enclosure stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

RAINY WEATHER PAINS

Many people boast of the fact that they can tell when a storm is approaching by a change of feeling which comes over them, or by some ache or pain in some portion of their anatomy. Such people should not be proud of the fact that they are good barometers, and will be surprised to learn that the reason they are so sensitive to changes in the weather is because they are suffering from some vicious toxemia which is poisoning the body.

Many animals have the faculty of perceiving barometric depression indicating the approach of storm, but the reason they can foresee bad weather is because their systems are so sensitive to any change in nature. All animal life is constantly fighting against the elements and destructive forces of nature, and animals, guided only by instinct, are protected in a measure so that they can take the necessary precaution in view of the approaching storm. Flies will gather around the door to seek shelter at the slightest danger of rain. Bees will return to their hives only partially loaded with honey. Ants will bury themselves in the ground, and dogs will set up a whining.

When man is affected by an approaching change in the weather, his corns will hurt, or a rheumatic joint will start aching. These pains come on because elimination is interfered with on account of the humidity in the air, and as a blanket of fog or even invisible mist descends upon the earth those people who are already toxic will find all their pains are becoming exaggerated on account of the extra amount of repression of elimination, due to the moist air.

If the pores of the body could be entirely stopped for four minutes it would not be possible for one to live, for if all the radiation of poison from the skin were suddenly stopped the body could not stand the excessive poisoning which would result. As the barometer falls, these pores become partially stopped, for the moisture from the body will not eliminate as completely if the air is full of an unusual amount of moisture. All nervous people will become more nervous and irritable under such conditions, and one suffering from any disease will find his symptoms more acute at that time.

One experience of realizing that you are a good "health barometer" should suggest to you that it is necessary for you to study the causes which have produced the poisoned state of your blood, making you so sensitive to changes in the weather. All eliminative functions should be stimulated, and every effort made to stop further interference with elimination. The diet should be properly regulated, and physical exercise taken vigorously enough to induce copious perspiration daily.

All people who are sensitive to approaching wet weather will find their skin not in good condition. The pores will be found stopped with poison because the skin is not in a healthy condition and cannot carry on its proper elimination. It is a good plan to take two or three cold shower baths daily in order to restore proper tone to the skin. After such baths the skin should be rubbed vigorously with a coarse towel until every square inch of skin glows with the flow of red blood.

Do not be satisfied until you have made your skin so healthy and have increased your eliminative functions to such an extent that you will no longer be so hyper-sensitive as to actually boast of being a good "health barometer".

PAINS FROM REFLEX CAUSES

It is often difficult to know what is causing pain in any one particular part of the body, for the cause is often very far removed from that location. For instance, the first pain usually felt in approaching appendicitis is in the epigastric region, or pit of the stomach.

It can be truly said that most of the pains occurring in the upper part of the body are caused by irritations or pressure below the diaphragm. Indeed, the abdomen, with those organs contained in what can be called the abdomen, is the principal source of the pains felt in any part of the body.

Headaches are very seldom caused by any trouble in the head, itself, the so-called eyestrain and other aches in the eye region (even when the condition exists in the eye itself) being generally caused by irritation or inflammation of the stomach. Aches back of the eyebrows, and anywhere along a band three-quarters of an inch wide, extending from the extreme end of one eyebrow to that of the other, originate from irritations and inflammations of the stomach also. Temple headaches, that is, those occurring at the side of the head in front of the ears, also originate in irritation.

Headaches in the top of the head generally come from the ovaries or bladder in the female, and from the testicles, bladder or prostate in the male. One of the most common headaches is that in the back of the head. This comes as a direct reflex from the uterus in the female, and from the prostate in the male, although treatment on the back of the neck by massage or manipulation will sometimes relieve this soreness. The real cause will not be removed until the inflammation or congestion of the ovaries or prostate is eliminated.

When there is much colitis present in the transverse colon, that is, irritation of the transverse colon, it will sometimes give a reflex ache or pain in the shoulder top. The right part of the transverse colon will make the right shoulder ache, and the left transverse colon will make a pain in the left shoulder.

Backaches often do not come from the back itself, but from some of the abdominal organs, such as the bladder, ovaries, or prostate, and the ache comes in the back just as if there were a bell ringing there by a button being pushed in some place in the abdominal cavity.

If you have been having trouble from some pain or ache in your body, be sure to see that you remove all of the irritations from the stomach, intestines and genital organs. Fasting for a few days from all food will free the alimentary canal of any kind of poison, and it will then have a chance to regain its normal tone. No matter where the pain is located in your body, be sure and use plenty of enemas as long as the pain exists, as this is a sure method for removing irritations of the alimentary canal. For immediate relief, hot applications of any kind applied to the abdomen will often bring about a satisfactory relief from a headache or pain in other parts of the body.

In health you should not be conscious of any organ of your body. You can rest assured, if you have pain anywhere it is because there is some definite irritation, and you must not be satisfied until you have found out where the real cause lies so you can then study a method for removing the cause at its place of origin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—C. D. E. writes: "I am a girl 20 years old and am very much underweight for my height. As I eat all healthful foods and my appetite is fine I have decided this failure to gain is due to a sunken chest. I have had several corrective gymnastics teachers tell me this is so. Do you think it is the cause of my underweight? Can this be corrected?"

Answer—The teachers may be right about the sunken chest being responsible for your underweight. At your age, if you will take the proper physical culture and breathing exercises you can surely correct the chest deformity.

Question—C. M. A. asks: "Would eating too many oranges cause my fingernails to become soft? I eat one orange in the morning and one or two before retiring. I also eat quite a lot of candy. Would that cause it?"

Answer—Using too much sugar can deplete your blood of its normal alkaline reserve and this might cause the softening of your fingernails. The oranges cannot hurt you and, in fact, if you use oranges properly they should help in correcting your trouble.

Question—Daily Reader writes: "Kindly tell me through your question and answer department what to do for a discharge from the ear."

Answer—The discharge from your ear may come from an infection of the ear membrane, or from a discharge of the bone. It would be unwise for me to attempt to advise you without knowing more about your case. Have a diagnosis made by an ear specialist and then write me again and I will be glad to give you my opinion regarding the proper method for you to follow in getting rid of your trouble.

Question—M. E. C. writes: "I enjoy reading your question and answer column, and would like to ask a question myself. I had my tonsils taken out about four months ago, but when exposed to wind or in a real warm place I have coughing spells. Please advise me if you approve of having tonsils taken out if they are diseased. Also if the exposure to wind and heat after a certain length of time will cease making me cough. Is it an early sign of tuberculosis of the throat?"

Answer—The cause of any cough should be very thoroughly investigated. Yes, it is true that it may be an early sign of tuberculosis of the throat, but not necessarily so, as it may be simply a result from your operation. I do not advise prompt removal of tonsils. They are composed of lymphoid tissue and when diseased can be made healthy again through dieting and following the proper hygienic habits.

Question—Mrs. J. O. S. asks: "May one, while on a reducing diet, drink tea with lemon once a day?"

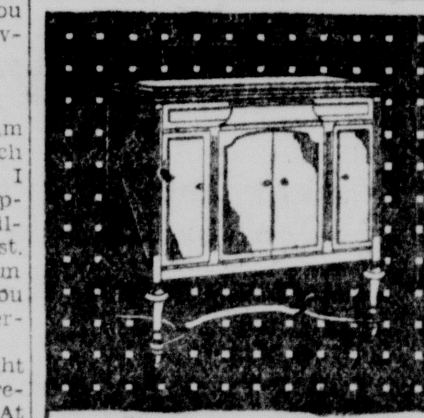

Answer—It is better not to drink any liquid except water while reducing.

Question—R. M. V. writes: "I would appreciate very much if you would give me a general synopsis of erysipelas, stating the cure, and the food the patient may eat. He is 70 years old, and has been laid up for eleven months."

Answer—I have prepared special articles on this subject which I have sent to thousands of my readers, many of whom have reported complete cures. Just send a large, self-addressed stamped envelope, and I will mail you the same article which has helped many others.

HALDANE

Haldane—The operetta "The Three Bears" given in the Haldane hall last Thursday evening was a grand success in every way. All were reminded of the old fairy tale as they saw the stage with its three beds and chairs, also the table with its three bowls of porridge. Emma Greenfield took the part of the big bear, Bernice Fry the mama bear and Wilma Reiff cleverly acted the part of the little bear and Lucile Long was Silver Hair and each of them presented the old familiar tale to the audience in a fine way. The six chorus girls made a neat showing

Good-bye dingy looking roofs—that discount home values!

See This Beautiful Roof Today!

YOU would scarcely believe that the home it now protects, was built twenty years ago. Yet, just a few days ago the original roof was rated unsightly and a poor asset to its community. Actually it discounted the homes around it.

With this new Mule-Hide Roof, applied over the original worn shingles—fresh life is now put into the old home. The insurance rate too, is less as leading companies recognize the fire resistant quality of Mule-Hide.

Today this old home—reroofed with Mule-Hide—would easily bring $500.00 more than if the old roof remained. You too, can increase the comfort and value of your home by reroofing.

Before you build or reroof see us. We will quote you a complete price applied by reliable local contractors. Or sell just the material if you prefer to do the job yourself.

LOWDEN HELD UP AS LEADER FOR FARM INTERESTS

Carl Vrooman in Fine Address at Meeting of Kiwanis Club

More than 150 farmers and members of the Dixon Kiwanis Club listened to an address delivered by Hon. Carl Vrooman of Bloomington, who talked upon the subject, "Better Relations Between Town and Country." The speaker was first assistant secretary of agriculture under the late President Woodrow Wilson and the agricultural committee of the local Kiwanis club was successful in securing him for a meeting which was thrown open to the farmers of the community. The parlors of the Christian church were filled to capacity for the address.

In opening his remarks and in expressing his gratitude in being invited to Dixon, the speaker added that he felt it a "keen personal pleasure" to enter the neighborhood of the greatest champion of agriculture in the United States today, your neighbor Frank O. Lowden, who has demonstrated his ability, his leadership and tenacity of purpose as a leader of agriculture." This brought an enthusiastic round of applause from the crowded banquet hall.

Launching into his subject, for which he is expertly fitted by years of study and observation, Mr. Vrooman in his original style of delivery said:

"The farmers feel have not been entirely on terra firma since the close of the war. No department of this country's business has received less consideration than has agriculture. It has been booted and buffeted around and lost. The problem of agriculture has never received proper attention in the United States. In addition, I wish to state to you that there never was a crisis as continued, as acute and as inexcusable as the agricultural crisis of today.

Bills Assassinated
"Bills have been formed and written, many of them containing good things for the farmer and formed for the purpose of relieving this crisis, but these same bills have been assassinated in Washington. They have not been met squarely and defeated face to face, but have been stabbed in the back. What will become of measures now in the course of preparation, I am unable to say but your guess is as good as mine.

"I recall the days when I was in Europe investigating food conditions. Men, women and children of all ages were dying by thousands. The living were suffering from what physicians termed mal-nutrition, but what I call slow-starvation. True that American farmers donated carload after carload of corn and food which did wonderful good, railroads transported it free of charge and it was dealt out to the needy. Europe was calling for more of this surplus food and an effort was made to map out a program for the sending of this surplus to Europe. Private initiative considered the plan, became involved in a squabble over the division of the profits and left America's bursting barns which would have fed and clothed Europe's empty stomachs and bare backs. Every bill which has been introduced in Washington that has been worth killing has been killed, insofar as agriculture is concerned. The present McNary-Haugen bill, advance information tells us, is to be vetoed by the President. If, however, it does become a law, it will only mean temporary relief and is merely a step which the farmers of this country are not to over-estimate.

Lowden Great Leader
"The American farmers are unorganized—they are not developed, they lack great leadership. Frank O. Lowden is a Republican discoverer and Senator Walsh of Montana, who has accomplished great things is riding Washington of corruption, is a great man for the Democrats. Walsh, however, is not as aggressive and outstanding as Lowden in the cause of agriculture.

culture. If the farmers of this country would develop as great leaders as has labor, they would be a controlling power. The farmer is both laborer and capitalist, but the development of proper leadership is a slow job. However it is coming and is not far distant. It will not come, however, until you are ready to sacrifice for it. Agriculture is never going to get to that position in this country which is just ours until we have learned to sacrifice.

"Washington is full of master crooks or I might call them super-crooks, who are not in the country's official life, but who stand ready to practice their clever technique in any measure.

"The average farmer knows more than any other tradesman. He knows how to handle many kinds of machinery, to handle live stock, to handle seeds and soil, but he does not know how to handle the ballot.

"The east has awakened to the fact that a great leader has been discovered in the west in the person of Frank O. Lowden, your neighbor and friend. During the past week election results have further attracted the attention of the dictatorial east and they are closely watching matters here. If the people of this locality fail to rally around their recognized leader, who is to be the loser? Not the leader. The farmers and their natural allies have become conscious of the fact that if they do not hang together, they will have to hang separately.

Farmers Line of Action
"If, as now seems probable that both the Democratic and Republican National Conventions, dominated by Eastern political bosses, nominate Eastern handpicked candidates, what line of action is open to the voters of the agricultural regions of the South and West?

"The fact must not be overlooked that in 1912 the two Progressive candidates, Wilson and Roosevelt, polled over 10,400,000 votes as against Taft's 3,400,000, demonstrating that on a showdown over three-fourths of our voters are Progressive. Moreover, every vote taken since the enactment of the Prohibition Amendment shows that nine-tenths of our states always vote dry, while a careful analysis of the votes of the West and South show that a good majority of the states in the Union strongly favor 'Equality for Agriculture.'

Unfortunately, however, third parties are pretty generally discredited. The general belief is that they are bound to fail. Roosevelt, like LaFollette, polled only a little over 4,000,000 votes.

Third Party Weakness
The weakness of a third party movement is largely due to its inability to create an effective precinct organization throughout the country. Therefore, if the dry agrarian West and South want to carry the coming election, their only chance will be by means of a bipartisan Coalition movement that will capture not only the voters but the party machinery of a majority of the precincts in every state south of the Mason Dixon line and in practically every state west of the Alleghenies. If a third party movement is "sure to fail," a Coalition of this character would be equally sure to win. Such a Coalition is rather a new idea in America, but it is a well known political method in Europe. Whenever in any European country an intelligent majority sees no other way to avoid a dictatorship on the one hand, or chaos and corruption on the other, partisan politics are temporarily laid aside and a Coalition Government instituted that puts patriotism above politics.

If both National Convention nominate Easterners for the Presidency this year, the only hope of the dries of the West and South, the only hope of the advocates of "Equality for Agriculture," the only hope of the believers in decency and honesty in Government and thorough housecleaning in state and national politics, will be such a Coalition behind some such outstanding Republican as Frank Lowden, or some such outstanding Democrat as Senator Walsh of Montana.

A brief program preceded the talk, the Misses Trostle and Buck of Franklin Grove very cleverly entertained with duet numbers and Prof. Ben Kietzman of Polo, formerly of the Dixon schools, furnishing two solo numbers, accompanied by Clinton Fahmy.

EVANGELICAL CONFERENCE
Aurora, Ill., Apr. 18.—(AP)—The annual conference of the Illinois conference of Evangelical churches was to open today with Bishop J. B. Stamm of Kansas City presiding. The conference will continue for the balance of the week.

HEALTH WEEK TO BE OBSERVED IN NORTH ILLINOIS

State Dept. Suggests the Schedule for Next Week's Program

Next Week will be observed as Health Promotion Week in the counties of northern Illinois, the schedule for the week, as prepared and suggested by the Illinois Department of Health being:

Sunday, April 22: Health Sunday.

Sermons emphasizing health and the distribution of health literature to congregations are suggested. Religious leaders are coming more and more to realize that four-square development—physical, mental, moral and spiritual—is the ideal for maximum service to God and man.

Monday, April 23: Dental Hygiene Day.

Everybody is requested to read one piece of good literature, see a motion picture or listen to a speech about teeth on this day. Plenty of snappy literature and motion picture films are available from and speakers may be engaged through the State Department of Public Health.

Tuesday, April 24: Dental Examination Day.

The inspection of the teeth of all children in the first four grammar grades is suggested for this day. Nearly everywhere the local dental society will cheerfully provide gratuitously the necessary professional service for this project. If suitable record blanks are furnished. Blank record forms may be secured from the State Department of Public Health.

Wednesday April 25: Food Facts Day.

Everybody is urged to read a good piece of literature or listen to an authoritative talk about nutrition on this day. Literature in abundance and of brief and practical character may be had from the State Department of Public Health. Playlets on the subject suitable for school use are also available.

Thursday, April 26: Diphtheria Prevention Day.

It is recommended that arrangements be made for giving the first of three doses of toxin-antitoxin to every susceptible child in the community under seven years of age on this date. By agreement with the local medical profession clinics at convenient places may be operated for the day. Another plan is to have the physician establish a set price for the immunizing work done on all children who come to their offices during the campaign. Plenty of literature and motion picture films stir up interest, and toxin-antitoxin are available free from the State Department of Public Health.

Friday, April 27: School Health Day.

The plan for this day is to let every school child in the State hear a talk on health, read a piece of literature on that subject, see a motion picture film or participate or see a playlet about health. Speakers may be scheduled, literature and playlet secured and films borrowed without local cost from the State Department of Public Health.

Saturday, April 28: Heart Disease and Cancer Prevention Day.

Special evening programs with talented speakers to talk on one or both these subjects are suggested. It is recommended also that literature on these subjects be widely distributed. A few hundred dollars in postage for mailing out leaflets would be money well spent. Boy Scouts are often available for carrying such material to the doors of homes. Literature on either cancer or heart disease in any reasonable quantity and a motion picture film on cancer may be had without local cost from the State Department of Public Health.

Nat. Republican Club Sidesteps Wet Move

New York, April 18.—(AP)—The National Republican Club has sidestepped the prohibition question.

The club in executive session last night tabled a majority report of its Committee on National Affairs advocating repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and a minority report urging defeat of the report submitted by the majority.

Richard W. Lawrence, who was inducted into the office of president immediately after the vote on the motion to table, was among those who spoke against the majority report.

He quoted President Coolidge, Secretary Hoover, Senator Curtis of Kansas and former Governor Lowden of Illinois on law enforcement, and asked: "How can this club properly take a position opposed to that of the men mentioned as the leading possibilities for the Republican nomination for President?"

To Compromise With Bootleggers on Tax

Seattle, Wash., April 18.—(AP)—Bootleggers of Tacoma and southwest Washington have been invited to a conference with prohibition enforcement attorneys in Tacoma tomorrow, Roy C. Lyle, Pacific Northwest prohibition administrator, revealed there today.

The purpose of the meeting is to offer the law violators an opportunity to compromise on their taxes for which they are liable under an old statute providing taxation for the manufacture and sale of liquor.

"Several hundred violators of the national prohibition act in Tacoma and vicinity have been advised that they will be given an opportunity to compromise on their tax liabilities if they so desire," Lyle's notice read.

gun in his mouth and sent a bullet through the roof of his mouth and out through the top of his head. Mrs. Taylor was shot in the back, just below and to the right of the shoulder blade. The bullet evidently penetrated her heart. It did not pass through her body.

Face Burned by Powder.

Ethel Jaunita, the only eye witness to the murder, told her grandmother that when her father shot the gun that it burned her face. She was playing on the floor at the time and said, "Mamma was just going in to the pantry."

Mr. Taylor was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor of Tampico and was born in Varney, Ill., March 16th, 1893. He had been employed at various times at the International Harvester Co. in Rock Falls and left the employment of the company on Wednesday, April 4th. Since that time he had been complaining of being ill and had not been working. According to Mrs. Dickens, her daughter said that he had threatened her life on several occasions and for the past several days had been unusually quarrelsome.

Mrs. Taylor went to the home of her mother, Mrs. Dickens, and stayed but a few minutes. She complained that Mr. Taylor had quarreled with her most of the night and that he said that he was going to leave, and had also intimated that he was going to end her life. It was but a short time after she had returned to her home when the child brought news of the tragedy.

Mrs. Taylor had ironed the family washing and had done other household work. There was some blood in the front room of the house and it was at first believed that Mrs. Taylor had been shot in the back while fixing up the bed, but the little daughter says that her mother was opening the door to the pantry.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were married in Iowa City, Iowa, December 27th, 1919. They also lived at Junction, Iowa, for a while and came to Rock Falls from that place about five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Dickens stepfather and mother of Mrs. Taylor, recently moved to Rock Falls from Iowa City.

Mrs. Taylor is survived by her daughter, Ethel Jaunita, who will be four years of age next July, and a son, Lavern, who was six the 5th of last November. He was in school at the time of the shooting. Three sisters, Mrs. Fred Wachs of West Liberty, Iowa; Mrs. Ernest Niles of Wilton Junction, Iowa, and Miss Leota Estes of near Dixon survive.

Mr. Taylor's parents reside in Tampico. He also has one brother, Edward of Garden City.

AMBOY NEWS

Amboy—Well, despite the fact that the weather on election day in Amboy seemed to have been planned with the express purpose of keeping the voters at home, the streets were crowded. It was by far the largest school election Amboy has ever had. A total of 747 votes were cast for district No. 166, and 630 for district No. 68. There was keen competition for weeks before the election and it was expected that the results would be very close. S. W. Pettigrew and Oscar Berga were running against the present incumbents, C. A. Entorf and H. C. Barth on the grade school board. There were three vacancies to be filled on the Township High School Board. One for the unexpired term of the late F. B. McCreary and Herman Bachofen was the only candidate for this seat. The terms of C. A. Zeigler and L. S. Griffith had expired and both were seeking reelection. C. E. Yale was also running for a place on the high school board.

F. N. Vaughan for president of the high school board (no opposition) received 505 votes. S. W. Pettigrew, 175, Oscar Berga, 145, C. A. Entorf, 424 and Dr. H. C. Barth 464.

As can be seen the results were not nearly so close as many expected. The crowd lingered on the street for hours after the polls were closed waiting for the results to be posted. It was observed that Bill Finch's cigar was raised to an alarming angle threatening to dislodge his hat brim;—that is before the results were posted—a little later it dropped to half mast, and still later it was necessary to brush the ashes from his coat. When the smoke had cleared away the crowd began to disperse, after paying bets, etc. It was an exciting election and Amboy as a whole is pretty well satisfied with the results.

The Senior dance given in the Amboy Township High School Friday evening was well attended, despite the fact that the weather was not what had been ordered. All those who had graduated from the school were invited and also a number of the business men. The Legionnaires from Polo furnished the music. Punch and wafers were served to the dancers. Among those of the older group present were Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Pettigrew, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Tauberneck, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Finch, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Tuttle, Mr. and Mrs. DeWees, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Thompson. The assembly room had been beautifully decorated by the class. It was just midnight when the orchestra played the last number, and the guests left with smiles despite the pouring rain.

GRANDDAUGHTER LEE CO. PIONEER DIED ON SUNDAY

Mrs. D. L. Miller of Sterling Was Known in This Vicinity

Mrs. D. L. Miller of Sterling, wife of a former mayor of that city who is well known in Dixon, died at the Sterling public hospital Sunday morning following an operation of appendicitis. Funeral services were held at the Sterling Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Miller's maiden name was Alice Maud Fender. She was born Jan. 19, 1867, at the Fender homestead in Elkhorn Grove, where she made her home until her marriage, after completing her studies at the Polo high school. Her parents were Hiram and Mary Fender, pioneers of that portion of Carroll county, midway between Polo and Milledgeville, where her father purchased extensive tracts of land in the early days.

Her grandfather, Abraham Fender, was one of the original settlers of the Rock River valley. He came originally from North Carolina and settled in Indiana. After the Black Hawk war in 1832, when the Rock river country was opened for settlement, he came to Illinois in 1836 and purchased 1400 acres of land near Gap Grove in Lee county. He and his sons did much to develop this portion of Illinois from a wilderness into improved farm land. Though he had a family of nine children and several grandchildren are still living, Mrs. Miller and her sister were the last to bear the Fender family name.

On Oct. 3, 1900, Miss Fender was married to David L. Miller, former mayor and prominent business man of Sterling. They lived their entire married life in the present family home on First avenue. Beside her husband, Mrs. Miller is survived by one daughter, Miss Lucia Fender Miller of the Sterling township high school faculty, and by one sister, Mrs. Della E. Woodruff, of Polo.

Our Enemy is Ever-Present

By CHARLES H. CHETWOOD, M. D.
New York City
Member Gorgas Memorial

The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

The human family is menaced by a never-present enemy in the form of disease. This enemy employs the very same methods of attack of invasion, and of inflicting damage that any other enemy might be expected to employ. In making this illustration, the human body may be regarded as a citadel which is being attacked by an invading army. The enemy will enter the besieged precinct by whatever opening it finds, and having made an entry, unless proper measures for protection and counter-attack have been instituted, will get the better of the situation and inflict damage in proportion to the strength of the invasion and its dangerous character. The common ports of entry by which such an enemy can reach the citadel of the human body are through the air, by water, and by many ways from the ground. In other words, the germs of disease are breathed, swallowed, or inoculated into the blood. Some people make light of the danger of disease transmission from the implantation of germs, but one has only to review the splendid achievements of public health departments in preventing and checking epidemics—the great advantage in protection of vaccination, which has caused an increasing diminution in disease—to realize the magnitude of the scientific knowledge that has been acquired after many years of study.

There is today no such thing as an epidemic of smallpox. Vaccination so widely propagated has reduced the likelihood of an epidemic to a negligible possibility.

Typhoid fever is preventable by protection of the water supply, the isolation of germ carriers, and the employment of preventable vaccines.

Malaria can be prevented by getting rid of all the mosquitos that carry the disease from man to man.

Some interesting statistics were published recently regarding the prevention of pneumonia. It is known that the contact infection is a rare one, yet the total number of cases throughout the country is not small and could be avoided by proper measures of prevention.

The prevention of scarlet fever has recently been along the same lines as the prevention of diphtheria, which latter disease has been largely minimized through preventive measures in the form of immunization through the use of serum.

Measles is not generally regarded as a serious malady but, when it is realized that young children in institutions who are victims of this malady die of the complications of lung conditions, it becomes a matter of importance to meet this malady with measures of prevention in order to avert more serious consequences. Hence it has now become the custom in institutions to immunize young children, particularly, by the injection of a little of the blood serum from convalescents.

Other diseases could be mentioned here which have been partially or completely mastered through preventive methods. In the meantime science continues its relentless search for new preventive data. The year 1928 will probably see some interesting and vital developments, with the ever-present enemy of disease placed further on the defensive.

Second Battle of Mons

Coburg, Ont., April 17—(AP)—The Supreme Court of Ontario was the scene of a second fighting of the Battle of Mons today as General Sir Arthur Currie, former commander of the Canadian Corps, sought to refute charges that the entry of the Belgian army by Canadian troops on November 11, 1918 was made at a deliberate waste of human lives to glorify the Canadian Headquarters and staff.

The former Canadian Commander is seeking $50,000 damages in a libel action against W. T. R. Preston, at one time liberal organizer for Ontario, and F. W. Wilson, publisher of the Port Hope Guide.

The action is based on an article published in the Port Hope Guide on June 13, 1927. The article also stated that the losses had been "appalling" and that officers attached to the Canadian Headquarters upon their arrival in Mons were warned their lives were in danger from their own troops.

Q—Is fuller's earth mined anywhere in Illinois? If so, where is it found?

—P. W. M. Rockford.

A—The Illinois State Geological Survey, M. M. Leighton, chief, headquarters in Urbana, as the result of a survey completed only a short time ago, has located several valuable deposits of fuller's earth in Pulaski county. This is only a short distance north of Cairo. Write for report of investigations, No. 15, if interested.

Two deposits of fuller's earth near Olmstead, Ill., have been mined for some time. One mine is operated by the Sinclair Refining Co. and the other by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. Fuller's earth is used chiefly for purifying and decolorizing mineral, animal and vegetable oils. It is a clay of special properties and gets its name from the fact that it was originally used for fulling woolen cloths.

PRESIDENTIAL PORTRAITS

The Story of Al Smith

EDITOR'S NOTE: This, the ninth in a series of Presidential Campaign Portraits written for The Telegraph and NEA Service by Robert Talley, is the second of four articles on Gov. Al Smith of New York. The third article on Gov. Smith will appear tomorrow.

BY ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer

Albany, N. Y., April 18—The fact that Al Smith in his boyhood was a talented amateur actor, gifted with a remarkable ability to imitate others, probably explains much of the success that has been his.

An ability to do as others do, to profit and learn by their examples, has bridged the gap in the neglected education of this former East Side newsboy and fish market clerk who left school before he was 15 and who now aspires to be the president of the United States.

This shrewd ability to adapt himself has enabled Governor Smith, now 55, to keep pace with his opportunities throughout life.

If a man had gone through New York City in 1873, looking for sources of future greatness, he hardly would have bothered to stroll down South street.

South street fringed the lower part of the East Side, flanking the East river. It was lined with wharves and piers, where, in a tangle of masts and rigging, ships from all over the world discharged their cargoes. There were sailors' boarding houses, saloons flourished, lines of washing fluttered from tenement windows then as now, the children played in the narrow streets.

In a four room apartment on the fourth floor of a narrow tenement at 174 South street, on Dec. 30, 1873, the only man who has ever been governor of New York four times was born. His father was a teamster, Alfred E. Smith Sr., a brawny man, poor in money but rich in friends. His mother, Catherine Mulvehill Smith, had recently arrived from Ireland and had a brother in the fire department.

The stories that portray Al Smith as having been a dirty child of the slums are all wrong. His mother kept him clean and neat and instilled ideas of honesty and character in her son. His parents were devout Catholics, so the church took him early. At 7, he was an altar boy at St. James' church nearby. He held this job until he was 14, often arising at 5 a. m. to reach the church in time for early mass.

When the boy was 13 his father died, after a long illness. Hard times pinched, but Catherine Mulvehill was not the kind to sit at home and lament her fate. She went out and got a job making umbrellas and Al went forth to make some money in the time-honored way of East Side youngsters—selling papers.

Before he was 15, increasing necessity forced young Smith to quit his classes at St. James' parochial school and get a job. He was first a "business chaser" for a trucking company and later a combination office boy and clerk in an oil company's office.

In the evenings, Al found time to take part in the amateur theatricals staged in the church basement. There were no movies in those days and the plays were largely attended. He could sing and dance or play the part of the deep-eyed villain equally well. In 1892, when Al was 19, he got a job in the Fulton fish market. He went to work at 4 a. m., working 12 hours a day and was paid $12 a week, plus all the fish he desired to take home.

A year later he went to work as a steam-fitter—and there politics found him.

In those days, as now, Tammany Hall was not only a political organization, but a social and benevolent organization as well. It was a highly organized machine, with numerous district "clubs."

The ward boss was a man who found jobs for the unemployed, who extended charity to the needy, who staged boat excursions and picnics. Naturally, on election day he "collected" in the form of votes.

Tom Foley, autocratic but kindly boss of the old Seymour Club, enrolled ed Al as a member. Pretty soon, he was "one of the boys," helping to keep things running—and round up the votes on election day.

Foley, keen in political wisdom, saw a future for Al, the amateur actor. Foley turned Smith's talents of dramatic eloquence to political speech-making. There began Al Smith, the politician.

When Smith married Miss Catherine Dunn in 1900, he was on the city payroll as a subpoena server at $75 a month. Foley had got him the job.

Tom Foley kept his eye on Al and in 1903, he decided the young man was ready.

"Al, have you got another suit of clothes?" Foley asked one day.

Al shook his head and grinned. "Well," said Foley, "go home and get this suit pressed and be at the club tonight. You're going to run for the assembly."

A short time later, Smith was elected to the lower house of New York's state legislature—the assembly, as it is called.

Lugging a new paste-board suitcase and wearing a brown derby, a loud vest and a louder tie, the new assemblyman went to Albany. He found the assembly a strange, confusing place. His first term was a dismal failure.

Having accomplished nothing, Smith was discouraged and wanted to quit. But Foley, knowing that at least two or three terms are necessary before a man gets his bearings, made him go back in 1905.

Smith's education as a legislator, one might say, began with his second term. Taking Foley's word that success was in store, he pitched into the job to learn everything he could. He dissected dry-as-dust bills, pushed himself forward in committees.

Smith succeeded so well in 1907 he was named to the committee to study and revise the charter of New York City. What he learned there made him an authority on the relation between state and municipal government.

In 1911, Smith was named to the ways and means committee and quickly won a reputation for himself by becoming an authority on pending legislation. There he got his first taste of finances and soon no budget was too complicated for him to assimilate.

After the Triangle Shirtwaist Co. fire in New York in which 145 girls died, Smith was given the task of getting through the assembly a program of remedial factory legislation. That was his first appearance as a champion of the people against "the interests." A little later he became speaker of the lower house.

Smith lost the speakership when the Republicans came into control in 1914, but in 1915 he won fame as a member of the convention that revised the constitution of New York state. Elihu Root, a member, said Smith knew more about the state's business than anybody else in the convention. Charles Evans Hughes said much the same.

Smith was still the ally of Tammany Hall, and to its loyal and distinguished sons, Tammany Hall is not ungrateful. Up to that time, Smith had been supporting his family on his salary as an assemblyman, but in 1915 Tammany caused his election as sheriff of New York county. It was then a fee job, reputed to pay as high as $150,000 a year. The rumor that Tammany demanded half of this as a political contribution from its holder exists but is unprovable. At any rate, Smith held this job for two years and profited handsomely.

Smith served an uninteresting term as president of the board of aldermen of New York City, and then, in 1918, he made his first whirlwind gubernatorial campaign against Charles S. Whitman, the popular Republican governor who was running for re-election.

Success, surprisingly enough, was his and so began his career as governor.

NEXT: Making "the new Al Smith."

DOCTOR SHOT IN

SANITARIUM BY

ENRAGED NURSE

Louisville, Ky., April 17.—(AP)—Dr. Christopher C. Scott, 51, slain yesterday in his private sanitarium by a male nurse, had been in Louisville's front page intermittently since Christmas eve, 1919, when Elizabeth Griffith, 17, the physician's employee, was found dead in his office.

Charged with murder for the girl's death, Dr. Scott proved an alibi and the grand jury refused an indictment. He declared she killed herself.

The physician had been drinking heavily yesterday, employees of his sanitarium stated. His slayer, Dan Newman, 40, is said to have received the use of "foul language" in the presence of women attendants and to have remonstrated when Dr. Scott abused the cook for misplacing a key.

A nurse stated that Newman procured a pistol from his room when Dr. Scott continued his abuse. Returning to the kitchen, Newman fired four shots, three of them taking effect, one in the physician's heart.

The ill-feeling between the men started when Dr. Scott brought an unidentified young woman to his hospital and ordered that she be put to bed, according to the cook, who declared the physician had dragged the girl about the floor before calling employees. Later relatives of a patient in the sanitarium learned of the incident and Dr. Scott became enraged, believing that Newman had informed them.

Two Delegates from Colorado for Hoover

Colorado Spring, Colo., April 17.—(AP)—Two of Colorado's fifteen delegates to the republican national convention will carry an endorsement for Herbert Hoover and the other thirteen will go uncommitted.

This was decided at the Republican state convention here yesterday after a resolution to instruct seven delegates-at-large for the Commerce Secretary failed, as did an attempt to obtain a similar endorsement for former Governor Lowden of Illinois. The Hoover proposal was voted down 483-12 to 437-12.

While the majority of the delegates went to Kansas unanimously regarding a presidential candidate, Hoover forces claimed the edge.

No More Trials for Dirigible "Italia"

Stolp, Germany, April 17.—(AP)—Confident that the Italia is able to withstand the rigors of an Arctic flight, General Umberto Nobile, commander of the Italian Polar Expedition, announced today that no trial flights were planned for the dirigible before its start for Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, its northern base.

"The Italia showed her mettle so well there is no point in testing her out once more," General Nobile said. "I will wait for word of the Citta di Milano's arrival at Kings Bay, and in the meantime quietly complete our scientific preparations."

Mystery in Slaying of Texas Minister

Troup, Texas, April 17.—(AP)—The motive for the slaying of the Rev. Fount Wallace, 25-year-old pastor of the First Baptist Church here, and the surrender to authorities of Loys Wilson, young garage owner, today provided a mystery for Smith county officials.

The pastor was shot to death here last night as he stood talking to the proprietor of a drug store. Witnesses said a man answering the description of Wilson approached Mr. Wallace and after shouting "prepare to meet your God," fired once at close range with a pistol.

Police were unable to advance a motive for the shooting. Wilson, accompanied by a friend, drove to Tyler the county seat, and surrendered to the Sheriff shortly after the shooting. He declined to make a statement.

Mr. Wallace is survived by a widow and a young daughter.
